The Arriba Juntos mission is to promote economic self-sufficiency for San Franciscans and their families through occupational training and employment opportunities

Arriba Juntos has provided vocational training and employment services to San Franciscans since 1965.

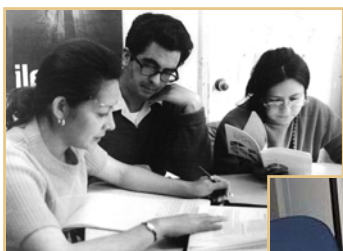

Our longevity tells us that we've been doing something right for a long time.

Our success rates for the fiscal year 2002-03 prove that we still are.

To the many of our clients that we helped become self-sufficient during the last year, our successes must have seemed nothing less than a miracle.

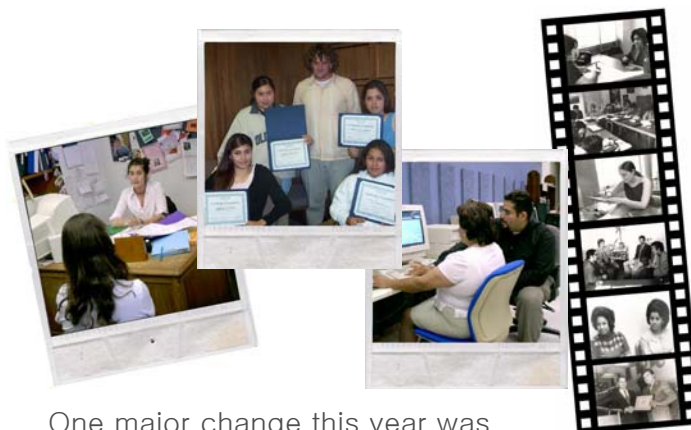

After all, we're in a recession.

For the agency staff that helped turn client dreams into reality, it was just another year in the life of Arriba Juntos.

Helping clients in the early days...

...and in the spring of 2003

One major change this year was transferring the role as the lead agency for the La Cocina project to the Women's Foundation.

What didn't change was our commitment to the well being of the community and success of our clients. That commitment is as constant as ever.

This year, we started construction on our elevator, made possible through generous support from the San Francisco Mayor's Office of Community Development (MOCD).

In 2002-03, Arriba Juntos offered clients a smorgasbord of job training and employment services from which to choose.

Hundreds of clients took the opportunity to learn new skills and gain the tools leading up to self-sufficiency.

Health careers and technology programs remained the most popular with funders and clients alike.
